DIARY.

a market already ascertained it is beneficial to all parties; but where the sole object is to obtain the financial relief afforded by hypothecation, it is easy to see its disastrous operation. If the goods sent find a market, there is no direct mischief inflicted: if not, they must nevertheless be sold—forced upon any terms. If there is a deficiency in the returns, against this a provision must be made by still further exports, which go on accumulating in amount not in proportion to the profit but in proportion to the loss.

number will probably be checked, now that it is authenticated that the existing diggings, though rich, are limited, and all taken up, and that new ground, even if discovered, could not be safely worked this season. That Kiandra will become a point of great attraction after October next seems very probable. Mr. CLOETE, who has now had some experience of the gold-fields of this colony, states that of the richness and extent of the gold-field he has no doubt, and he gives several instances

SNOWY RIVER DIGGINGS.
THE OFFICIAL REPORT.

THE following report is from Mr. Commissioner Cloete, and is addressed to the Honorable the Minister of Lands, who has politely handed it to us for publication:—

The Commissioner in charge of the Southern Goldfields, to the Hon. the Secretary of Lands, reporting on the Kiandra Gold-field.

in previous transactions, and this may continue till the bubble bursts. The effect of the system on the prudent colonial merchant who employs his own capital and makes remittances or sends indents for the purchase of manufactures adapted to a specific circle of trade, may be easily seen. Articles of the same description are thrown upon the market by the speculative consignor, who obliges his agent to meet his acceptances by forcing his goods at ruinous prices. To save himself from this competition, of success on the part of persons who did not secure any of the best claims. The surfacing, too, he states, will pay as soon as water can be regularly brought in, so that, whenever the ground is available for operations of this sort, there will be more steady occupation and less occasion for complaint than at present.

About six thousand ounces of gold have already come down to Sydney from Kiandra by different hands. But, as there are five thousand persons collected there, this is but a small

1. The present diggings are chiefly situated on the "Encumbence," a tributary to the "Snowy River," and contain, when I left a population of about five thousand persons. The daily numerous arrivals from Victoria will, however, soon increase that number to probably eight thousand.

2. From the most authentic information to be action the true merchant is induced to step into the auction to add to his stock beyond the requirements of his trade, and he thus becomes, in spite of himself, a speculative holder. This ruinous process does not rest with him. He pushes his goods wherever it is possible to sell them, abating that caution which in more fortunate circumstances he would feel bound to exercise. Traders of various gradations are entrusted with large credits. The parcels of sum to be divided amongst them all ; and as the number of lucky diggers probably does not exceed five hundred, a great many must have lost severely. If we could always add together the losses of gold-diggers, and subtract the amount from the total gains, the net proceeds would often appear very small. The big nuggets are terrible deceivers ; and of all the lotteries that ever fascinated sanguine mortals, perhaps a new gold-field is the most bewitching and the most disastrous. H. ADAMS.

Many people propose wintering there, but the first appearance of snow will, I think, drive them away, as they are for the most part most inadequately provided, and are taking but little precaution against the well-known severity of the winter. One large and comfortable public-house has been erected, capable of affording shelter to about one hundred persons, and the proprietor is busily engaged in procuring supplies. The majority, or at all events a considerable goods which they received are passed from hand to hand, and each of these profitless transactions is represented by a series of paper which find its way into the discounting room. This system of credit extends to the lowest shopkeepers, and even to private families, who are eagerly sought and recklessly trusted, because distribution is essential to the whole chain of previous transactions. It is extremely difficult for any man to escape the meshes of this system of trade. If credit is customary he must give credit, or else

This is quite as true of old gold-fields as of new ones. From a statement in a late number of the Argus we find that the mining reports shew that the number of ascertained actual diggers in Victoria is 129,764, and as the quantity they raise per annum is about 2,269,049 ounces, they get on an average only eighteen ounces each, which gives them, clear of the gold duty, £66. Out of this they have to support themselves, and to pay all losses, so that the strenuous earnings of the diggers are

Number of the miners, will winter at and about Russell's station, twelve miles from Kiandra, and the rest at Adelong and Tumberumba.

4. Of the richness and extent of this gold-field I have little doubt, although the near approach of winter, has prevented many of the attempts to prospect far from the present diggings, and the river thoroughfares, yet on the table-land, and falls of the river, payable yields of gold have in several places been found. The richest claims yet opened were those first taken up, and from them gold in large quantities has certainly been obtained. Some of the accounts would almost lead one to believe that the gold would melt a few of its miners.

Another cause unquestionably is the facility of discount in the colonies.

In too many instances this has constituted the entire capital of traders. It has not been an assistance to enable them to work with greater advantage their own resources. Nor has this state of things been much improved by the system of cash credits. There are few persons in this community who have not learned the dangerous nature of this form of loan. The borrower forgets his obligation.

"Average" earnings are not equal on that showing to the rate of wages. The value of mining plant of all sorts is about £1,115,925 or at the rate of £8 17s. 5½d. per man.

whom I could rely. The party of three whose claims were not in the first opened and rich ground, had obtained at an average two ounces per day per man; another party had made as much as twenty pounds per day each; and the other two parties, whose claims were also not in the richest ground, had averaged twenty pounds each per week since they had been at work. A man who I had known in the Western district, complained of only earning two pounds a-day.

The surface diggings are also rich, and will, when the water is brought up, yield largely. I did not think, however, at the present, that it would be advisable to extend the trial.

years have perhaps transpired, when he receives a notice that what was talked of as a form converted into a sad reality. Thus between cash credits and discounts, a business that would have been considered successful if supported by an original capital and kept within legitimate bounds, fails to answer these accumulated charges, which in themselves would constitute a fair return for ordinary mercantile investment.

known in the colony as "kite flying." Of all the forms of raising money this is the most perilous. The process is extremely simple. Two men having no present dealings in business—between whom nothing substantial passes—who contemplate no dealings—sit down, and by the labour of two minutes, manufacture paper which represents in name thousands and tens of thousands of pounds. By this process the solvent man indissolubly unites his fortunes with the insolvent—the honest with the dishonest.

THE CUSTOM HOUSE ENQUIRY.—The Board which was appointed by the late Government to enquire into certain charges preferred by the Collector of Customs against Messrs. Metcalf and Powell, the Custom House agents, have sent in their report. The substantial charges were, that Messrs. Metcalf and Powell had conspired with the Colonial Sugar Company to defraud the Government in matters of drawback. There were several minor charges, but these were the principal. The report has not been made public, but it is understood that the Board is unanimously of opinion that the charges are well founded.

5. I have informed the Commissioners that no date could be fixed for their departure, but that they were to be prepared to leave on the first approach of the winter season, to station a sub-commissioner at "Russell's", where the police station and the five mounted men should also be placed. Mr. Gouldenbury, who leaves on Monday next, will proceed by Cooma and Russell's, so that the repairs required for the road could be decided on with the Cooma Bench, complained against have great cause of offence in the tone and style of the letters of the Collector. There was also a charge against Messrs. Towns and Co. respecting some tea which had been removed from their bonded stores. This matter the Board consider to have been satisfactorily explained.

AUSTRALIAN HORTICULTURAL AND AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.—The exhibition of the produce of this valuable society—valuable since it exercises both a social and marked influence on colonial produce and manufactures—the weather was so unpropitious throughout, that the efforts of the committee and of the exhibitors were all for naught, since the public

The population of Adelong will much increase during the winter, and as the quartz claims there will not be diminish registered, the number of miners will not much diminish during the next summer. I would submit to you the following arrangements, viz. :—That one of the gold-field commissioners take charge of the Adelong, and that an assistant gold-field commissioner take the Kiandra Gold-fields. During the winter the latter offices could be at Tumberumba and insolvency. Yet in the colonies many have operated upon borrowed capital subject to all but instant recall, and upon that capital alone. What tremendous risks and sacrifices this state of things must imply, and how impossible to be brought into harmony with the fluctuations of trade! The dealer, as such, must be hourly compromised by the desperate struggles of the financier.

were unable to witness what had been provided for their more gratification. In addition to the disappointment to the friends of the society, the loss must have occurred to the exhibitors, who had will infinite pains, and at some expense brought to perfection their various samples of fruits, flowers, vegetables, agricultural produce, &c. As will be seen by an advertisement elsewhere, the society, taking into consideration the late disappointment to the public, have let the exhibition be supplied by the Horticultural Society in the Botanic Gardens this day and to-morrow, when certificates of honourable mention of three classes will be awarded to the most worthy exhibitors. We hope a large attendance will reward the efforts of Russell's, supervising any new fields that may be opened in the falls of the rivers, and thus be ready at the commencement of the next spring to concentrate the men, horses, and equipment. The commissioners would probably be to make appointments, and in the winter be able to gain that knowledge of his duties so necessary for his efficiency at Kiandra next spring. I propose to take charge myself of this gold-field when it shall be re-opened, for such time as may be necessary to arrange the stationing and general duties of the commissioners.

A disorder at Kiandra more disorder than is observable in every newly-discovered gold-field. Sly roop-selling is certainly carried on to a great extent, wherever there is a declining trade, the enormous daily expense is sufficient to bring down even a strong establishment. The rental of business premises—the multitude of employees—the economy of the business menage—several separate private houses, with all their separate appointments,—such are the burdens which often lie upon the firm in which very small original capital has been invested, and where success can only be possible by a rapid return, and profits such as are not obtained against a rigorous competition.

BALMAIN MUNICIPALITY.—A meeting of the electors for this municipality was held yesterday at Roundtree's store, for the purpose of nominating candidates for councillorships and auditorship. Mr. J. Shoobert, presided as returning-officer, and explained the duties of the electors in any address to the electors. Having called upon the meeting for the nomination of candidates for seats as councillors in the Municipal

But I did not think it advisable to interfere, where it was impossible entirely to check. When public-works are established this illicit selling will of course be put a stop to.

The reserve police force at Kiandra consists of twelve men. For the next season there should be no more than thirty; of these, ten could be dismounted. A station is being formed on the road between Kiandra and Tumut, which will be of great service, both as a patrol station and a halting-place for the escort.

Although not strictly a matter connected with any department, I would be, in conclusion, to express my opinion that the appointment of a police magistrate would be a great advantage.

We are strongly inclined to think, too, that the majority of men in Australia who are not dependent upon fixed incomes, live out of proportion to their resources. Two or three prosperous years enabled them to bear a scale of expense from which it is difficult to recede. Their dwellings, their furniture, their table, their clothing, their equipage—all is regulated, not by the contingencies of unprosperous, but the possibility of prosperous, years.
